

M-10 M3 Tail Light Innovation

Eric Childers is a custom bicycle builder who has a King Midget and was having trouble getting his engine to run properly, so he called Lee Seats. Lee, as you all know, has been president of the Club for years, holds a full time job, is building a brand new King Midget prototype (see page 29) and has a lot of fun with his King Midget. In addition, lots of us call Lee when we have a problem with our cars, and Lee is always ready to help.

Eric couldn't get his engine running well based on telephone consultations so he loaded it up and brought it to Lee, who fixed it.

While the car was in Lee's shop, he noticed the tail lights Eric had installed and took these photos.

Clever! They're clear power line insulators, illuminated by red bulbs. ◻
